GOVERNOR DOCKERY GRANTS THANKSGIVING PARDONS.

Frank Moore, John Smith and William Carr, All Long Term Men, Go Free at Penitentiary To-Day.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 23 .- Governor Dockery to-morrow will, in conformity with an old custom, issue Thanksgiving pardons to three of the oldest convicts in the Penitentiary, in point of time served. Frank Moore, John Smith and William Carr are the lucky men, who, out of about 2.500, have been singled out as the convicts who are to have especial reason to feel thankful to-morrow.

Moore is a St. Louis man, sent up under the Habitual Criminal act, for life. He was sentenced in 1894, and has served ten years and six months of his time. Though an habitual criminal, he has been what an inabitual criminal, he has been what might be called an exemplary convict, and the prison officials have had no trouble with him. He has for several years been an attendant in one of the halls.

Smith has been in prison as long as Moore, lacking a month. He came up from Ralls County in 1894, under sentence for ninety-nine years, for murder in the second degree. He has never shown a victous disposition, and his good behavior has helped to secure the elemency of the Governor.

Throughout his trip every visit and move of the Prince and his suite has been conducted on strict military prin-ciples of disclipine, and his punctuality in these matters has been frequently commented upon by his hosts. RINGS MISSING WHEN

What makes the case still more mysterious is the fact that two Japanese soldiers have been stationed in front of the Prince's apartments since his arrival at the Buckingham and in fact they have stood at the Prince's call during his entire tour of the country. These soldiers are said to have been on duty at the time of the reported disappearance of the

When the theft was discovered by the Prince on his return from the reception at the home of the Board of Lady Man agers members of his suite suggested that ne notify the Chief of Police, but this he refused to do, dreading the disagreeable features connected with the notoriety of the deplorable incident and the present of officers about his apartments. He nowever, it is said, informed the manage ment of the club regarding the disappearance of the rings and the decoration of he grand master of his household.

After a thorough search for the missing property the management decided to place he matter in the hands of the Pinkerton Agency. The greatest secrecy and silence regard ing the theft has been maintained by both the club management and the mem the Prince's suite, in the hope that the robber would be discovered or induced to return the gems. Inquiries of both parties resulted in evasive replies. Five Pinker ton detectives were about the club cor-ridors last night. They refused to admit or discuss the theft MOST DARING THEFT

IN A LOCAL HOTEL

Since the bold robberies at the Jefferson Hotel and others the police have been particularly vigilant and have roun several noted sneak thieves. This theft wever, is probably the most noted and daring ever executed in a St. Louis hotel. Absolutely no clew to the identity of the thief has been discovered and the officers are forced to rely on hints and suggestions from guests of the hotel and others

It is suggested that there was more than one sneak thief and that whill of them, possibly a woman, engaged the guard in conversation, the other quickly stepped into the room and took the rings and the decoration. They could be easily seen from the outside of the door, as it is stated the rings lay on the table in Governor.

Carr is a negro, and has been in the Penitentiary nearly twelve years. He was sent up from Jefferson County in 1822 for murder in the second degree, under a sentence of forty years, which is equal to a life sentence, as very few men live more than fifteen years in the Penitentiary. Carr has been a familiar figure in the big prison dining-room for many years, where he has always attended his duties faithfully and proved himself a valuable man in his place.
